

Candye Kane, Who Do You Love

If your love is black, if your love is white,
If you meet at dark or in broad daylight,
In a back alley bar or a limousine
everybody it's the same old thing.

Who do you love? It's alright.
Who do you love? It's alright.
Makes no difference to the Lord above
He loves you no matter who you love.

If you discover, it's alright
that you need a gay lover, that's alright,
and if you find out around midnight
that you need two girls to feel just right.

If you wanna pay money, that's alright
for her to call you "honey", that's alright.
if it takes more action, that's alright,
to get your satisfaction, that's alright.

Who do you love? it's alright.
Who do you love? it's alright.
Makes no difference to the Lord above
He loves you no matter who you love.

Live your life, play your part.
Let the feelings flow from your heart.
You can't change the tide, you can't change the sea
you just gotta be who you were born to be.

Who do you Love? It's alright.
Who do you love? It's alright?
Makes no difference to the Lord above.
He loves you no matter who you love.
