Canibus, Westwood Freestyle (Extended) (Feat. 3

(Canibus)

Who write the song, I write the song Rhymes accelerate through the cyclotrons in nine microns Turn my mic on, regurgitate the windpipe bomb The opposite of a black lung is a white one Can-I-Bus in your face, shrapnel free concussion grenades Mammalian diver reflexes, undulating under the waves Got something to say come to the cave, stick your head in I'll bring a new meaning to the phrase dead end A totally tumultuous tragedy, you battle me? I'll perform rhinoplasty with surgical savagery Wield the axe with more gravity than Agassi Crack your teeth till you mouth sounds like a tambourine You think I'm over rated? I'm nauseated I'm the living creation of the equation Minkovski formulated With an automated overbite Swift as a canard wing shin den prototype, when I'm holding the mic Who write the song?

(Canibus)

The human barometer
It's illogical and preposterous, they don't believe in my preponderance
I arm wrestle servos
Calculate the distance between worlds through worm holes
To escape when the earth blows

(Canibus)

I'll fry your ass, recycle your biomass You never seen lyrics fly so fast Canibus from the carnivorous phylum class Wherever hyenas cry, the lions laugh
