

Carlene Carter, Little Acts Of Treason

(Carlene Carter)

You could say that we were destined
For one another's arms
Or maybe we were wishin' for the moon and stars
No matter what the reason
it's a deadly game we play
These little acts of treason
Will see the light of day
You tell me you don't love her
Then tell me why you stay
You made me a believer
You said it'd be OK
Now I'm standing in the darkness
And we hold each other tight
These little acts of treason
Have never felt so right
With a passion as pure as an angel's heart
While rivers flow, we'll never part
With a passion that's blind to all that can see
These little acts of treason
Tell on you and me
I don't want to be a liar
I wanna tell the truth
But I'll probably burn in fire
These things I do for you
So I rage at the heavens
And I'll love you deep inside
These little acts of treason
Are so hard to hide
These little acts of treason
Have never felt so right
These little acts of treason
Are so hard to hide
