

Carlos Santana, Stone Flower (Introduction)

What's that sound I hear coming from the ground that's going 'round and 'round I can feel it pull me down On my knees tears of joy have come to me As the flower sounds made it plain to see that this world is a perfect place to live there is a warm soft wind blowing 'round me just to give all the leaves such a haunting melody that forever will be a part of me

Just like a ship out on the sea floating alone no one around me or beyond me the sun is on me then suddenly I felt a kiss out of the breeze that did caress me and possess me oh it astounds me

All around there's a feeling in the air that with the grace of time we'll be getting closer there but day by day I can see they walk away and I wonder, Lord will they ever know that this world is a perfect place to live?

Just look into your heart, find the love that's there to give Realize that the secret is to share
