

Cassandra Wilson, Lies

like a fool, I believed in your lies those words behind your eyes you walked into something sweet and smoothest and warm you crawled under my skin you would say that it's all in my mind you'd never be unkind just like a snake wrapped around a heart of gold you stole my every word living inside your world makes me cry an oceanful of tears
living inside your love is a lie
living inside your love is a lie lie living, living, living, living inside your love.
living inside your world makes me cry
an oceanful of tears
living inside your love is a lie
like a fool, I believed in your lies
those words behind your eyes
you walked into something
sweet and smoothest and warm
you crawled under my skin
like a fool, I believed in your lies