

Catch 22, Minor Point

Some may want to say that were killers
But we do what we must
And we feel we are just
Cutting off the head of the imperial serpent
Taking back the land for the hands
That have worked it.

Critics cry of bloody days
But people still die anyway
The ones who understand their roles
Can help us save the world

History has afforded us this opportune occasion
To form a new foundation
You must first tear down the walls

Some may want to say that were heartless
That were staking our claim for political gain.
But they don't see the power we've harnessed.
With the masses united
It's pointless to fight it.

Critics cry of bloody days
But people still die anyway
The ones who understand their roles
Can help us save the world

History has afforded us this opportune occasion
To form a new foundation
You must first tear down the walls

Critics cry of bloody days
But people still die anyway
The ones who understand their roles
Can help us save the world

History has afforded us this opportune occasion
To form a new foundation
You must first tear down the walls