

Catie Curtis, Cross Over To Me

When you run out of time
There is nobody to help you unwind
The world, you say, is big and blue
When there is nobody to watch over you
I feel you move, yes, I do
Though you're half a world away
You and I and all the ways we deny
The one thing we can't say
You are shaking my bridge, tossing silver to sea
Were you making a wish or did you let go of me?
I've been out there alone, you got something I need
Cross over to me, cross over to me
In this city of delight
I've got everything I could do tonight
But I don't want to, you know
I just sit and watch the people below
And I feel you move, yes, I do
Though you're half a world away
And I feel, somehow, you can hear me now
Everything my heart would say
You are shaking my bridge tossing silver to sea
Are you making a wish or did you let go of me
I've been out there alone, you got something I need
Cross over to me, cross over to me
When will I ever learn, baby
What I put myself through
Every time I think about you
Every night I dream without you
Close my eyes, toss and turn
Make a wish and watch it come true
How was I to know you'd want me
Like I want you
I was out there alone, you got something I need
Cross over to me, cross over to me
Cross over to me, cross over to me
