

Catrien Maxwell, Twisted

A life that isn't yours
How dare you steal my sun
The light that always shone
How dare you turn it off
So you wanna pull me down to where you are
So you aren't alone in your dark, dark world

Chorus

Only a cold and crumbling heart
Would love to see me like this
Only a sick and lonely soul
Would smile at the thought
Only you would have this twisted pleasure

I've never loved you, babe
And you know no one could
It's you against the world
And you will stand alone
So you wanna pull me down to where you are
So you aren't alone in your dark, dark world

Chorus

I took a bite of your poisoned apple
I fell to the ground, shaking at your feet
But I can make it out all by myself
And never again will you take me
You can't hurt me

Chorus
