

CeCe Winans, I Have A Father

I might not be able to tell the wind when to blow
Or the stars to shine at my command
But there is one constellation I'm happy to know
I have a father who can

I may not be able to tell the sea when to stop
Before she rolls across the sand
But there is one constellation, I'm happy to know
I have a father who can

A father who will always understand
And He'll always be there to lend a helping hand
No matter the situation
That this world may bring if on his word
On his word I stand

I have a father who can

I may not be able to deliver a soul from sin
Or to mend the broken heart of a man
But there is one constellation ohohoh.....

I have a father