

Celldweller, Tainted

There's nothing more she can do, to make a change yet
She does the best at she can, to re-arranged
It's not a question of why and if she'll make it
It's more a question of when and how she'll take it
Standing out there alone completely naked
Another secret's been kept and left her tainted
She fought them bravely until defenses caved in Pressing their teeth to her neck until she gave in
Now there's no question this girl is well acquainted
With suffering in a world that's left her tainted
She's at the edge of the world
She's there standing alone
She's the loneliest girl
And now she finally feels like she's coming home.