Celtic Frost, Mesmerized

You, who like the moon at night Haunted my mortal heart ...

You who made this ancient walls Shine like divine marble

The unwanted breath - through creedence A derelict shell in the desert

- Mesmerised -As love inflamed the night Burning tongues brought the rain The sand remained - purified

Murmur at the meager's spear Battered Carthagian pride The beloved cry - wasted dismay Invasion of baseness and shade

You, loved by your father Innocent as a vestal - dove

Buried in a deep blue sea As we all lose - ever
