

Celtic Woman, S

Celtic Woman

Miscellaneous

S do mhaimeo (The Wealthy Widow)

Gaelic version, followed by English version:

Chorus:

S do mhaimeo , s do mhaimeo

S do mhaimeo , cailleach an airgid

S do mhaimeo , ´ Bhaile Inis Mh´ir

S chuirfeadh s c´ist ar bh´ithre Cois Fharraige

D bhfeicfe an "steam" ghabhail siar T´in U Loin

S na rotha ghabhail timpeall siar ´ na ceathrna

Chaithfeadh s n stiir naoi n-vair ar a cl

S n choinneodh s sil le cailleach an airgid

(Chorus)

Measann t , bp´sfa, measann t bp´sfa

Measann t , bp´sfa, cailleach an airgid?

Ts am nach bp´sfa, ts am nach bp´sfa

Mar t s r´-´g gus d´lfadh sn t-airgead

(Chorus twice)

S gairid go bp´sfaidh, s gairid go bp´sfaidh

S gairid go bp´sfaidh, beirt ar an mbaile seo

S gairid go bp´sfaidh, s gairid go bp´sfaidh

San Shamais Mh´ir agus Mire N Chathasaigh

(Chorus three times)

She is your granny, she is your granny

And she would put coaches on the roads of Cois Farraige

She is your granny, from the town of Nishmore

Shes your granny, the hag with the money

If youd see the steam going past Toin Ui Loin

But shed never keep pace with the hag with the money

Shed scatter the stoor nine times to the rear

And the wheels turning speedily out from her flanks

Do you reckon hed marry, do you reckon hed marry

Cause he is too young and hell squander the money

I know hell not marry, I know hell not marry

Do you reckon hed marry the hag with the money?

Well soon have a wedding, well soon have a wedding

Between Sean Seamais Mhoir and Maire Ni Chathasaigh

Well soon have a wedding, well soon have a wedding

Well soon have a wedding, by two in the village