

Chalee Tennison, I'd Rather Miss You

(Bat McGrath/Michael Jones/Anthony Little)

Don't tell me that it's over because I know my heart won't hear
It thinks we'll be together like we've been for all these years
I know this may sound foolish, but you've got to realize

I'd rather be a fool than to say good-bye
I'd rather take my chances that I'll get one more try
I'd rather live a lie than to face the truth
Before I'd love somebody new, I'd rather miss you

I can't imagine life without you
I close my eyes and see your face
You say I'll find another, but who could ever take your place
So I'll keep on believing my love will change your mind

I'd rather be a fool than to say good-bye
I'd rather take my chances that I'll get one more try
I'd rather live a lie than to face the truth
Before I love somebody new, I'd rather miss you

I'd rather be a fool than to say good-bye
I'd rather take my chances that I'll get one more try
I'd rather live a lie than to face the truth
Before I love somebody new, I'd rather miss you
