

Charley Pride, If You Should Come Back Today

You'd stop at hundred and forty tears I forget the lonely years
I know I've been lost for words to say
I know my lonely heart would go wild you can bet I'd have to smile
If you should come back today
If you should come back I wonder what I'd act like
I wonder what I'd do I wonder what I'd say
I know that I do more than stand and smile while my crazy arms went wild
If you should come back today
[steel]
I've done a lotta lonely midnight walkin' and some crazy senseless talkin'
I've missed you every kind of way
I know I surely lose control like a love that's in my soul if you should come back today
If you should come back...
If you should come back today
