

Charley Pride, Things Are Looking Up

I just pull the tread and unravel my life with you
And I'm rebuilding at home a little at a time
Now and then your mem'ry slows my tragic down
But things are looking up I haven't lost my mind
Things are looking up I haven't called you now in day
The hurt still drops by every night but it no longer stay
When I can touch or taste or hear or see you in my mind
Yes things are looking up and all I need is time

I went to church with the kids and it didn't fall
I let them think they taught me into going
Their mom look proud and even held my hand
All things are looking up when hurt's not showing
Things are looking up...
