Charlie Mars, How Could You

You know all my secrets You know all my dreams I think maybe I have told you One too many things

How could you do this to me now

You know how to touch me You know how to make me scream I think maybe I have told you One too many things

How could you do this to me now

How can you call this making love When you don't make a sound Tell me how Can you do this to me now

You know all the answers You aint nothing like you seem I wish that all of this was something from a dream

How could you do