

Charlie Winston, Lately

Lately, I've been thinking,
This could be another soundtrack to your life
Seems like you know the script by heart
The curtains, haven't opened,
But I've been watching everybody play the part
Think I'll stick around to see what happens

Give an inch and you take a mile
Couldn't you have waited a little while longer
Was the feeling too strong?

Lately, you've been living on the outside lane
Frankly, I'm not letting you through /2x
You need another car

Lately, I've been watching,
From the back seat seeing how the others drive
Funny how they love to take control till
Something, isn't working
I see them losing their minds trying to keep their pride
As they race for the first position

Give an inch and you take a mile
Couldn't you have waited a little while longer
With the feeling too strong?

Lately, you've been living on the outside lane
Frankly, I'm not letting you through /2x
You need another car /3x
Lately, you've been living on the outside lane
Frankly, I'm not letting you through /2x
