

Charlotte Gainsbourg, Heaven Can Wait

She's sliding, she's sliding down to the depth of the world
She's fighting, she's fighting the urge to make a ...
Heaven can wait
and hell's too far ago
Somewhere between what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the ground
She's hiding, she's hiding on a battleship of baggage and bones
There's thunder, there's lightening in an avalanche of faces you know
Heaven can wait
and hell's too far ago
Somewhere between
what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the ground
You left your credentials in a greyhound station with a first aid kit and a flashlight Going to a .... unknown
Heaven can wait
and hell's too far ago
Somewhere between
what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the ground
