

Charly McClain, Sleeping With The Radio On (19

Charly McClain

Miscellaneous

Sleeping With The Radio On (1981)

My heart beats with the lonely rain wishing I could see your face again
Change the dial on the radio; find something playing kind-a bluesy and slow
If things were only like they used to be, with you lying in love tonight
I wish you'd call me on the telephone; I don't wanna spend another night alone

Sleeping with the radio on it's the only way I can make it till dawn
Sleeping with the radio on you're on my mind and I can't forget you

It's getting late, almost quarter-to-four I hear a knock at my door
Stumble in the dark and hear your voice again open up the door and let the sunshine in
Take me in your arms and make love nice and slow it's so good to be this close to you
No more nights of sleeping alone, no more days with these lovesick blues

Cause we'll be sleeping with the radio on let's take the rest of the day together
And I'll unplug the telephone now that you're here, I'm gonna love you forever

Sleeping with the radio on I don't want more of those nights all alone
Sleeping with the radio on you're on my mind and I can't forget you
Sleeping with the radio on I don't want more of those nights all alone
Sleeping with the radio on you're on my mind and I can't forget you