

Cheap Trick, Perfect Stranger

I woke up kinda sick, the air is getting kind of thick
And I'm tired of everyone
Like a book on a rainy day, I'm the one left off the page
Well, it's too much time in the sun
Have you ever wanted to try
When everything's going right by?
Don't need another perfect stranger driving me insane
Constantly saying it's time for you to change
(It's time for you to change)
I don't need another perfect stranger to shout out from the sky
Explaining the reasons, the meaning of my life
(The meaning of my life)
So when did yes turn into no
And should you stay or should you go?
Well, you're always stuck in between
I tried to fake a laugh or two
But my mistakes were all for you
It's too much pain, it's hard to swallow
You'll be there and gone tomorrow
I can't spend another night or day
I can't hear another word you say, the words you say
Don't need another perfect stranger driving me insane
Constantly saying it's time for you to change
(Time for you to change)
I don't need another perfect stranger to shout out from the sky
Explaining the reasons, the meaning to my life
(The meaning to my life)
If not for you, oh, if not for you
We all started strangers
And yeah, I'm perfect without you
We all started strangers
My world is perfect without you
Don't need another perfect stranger driving me insane
Constantly saying it's time for you to change
(It's time for you to change)
I don't need another perfect stranger shouting from the sky
Explaining the reasons, the meaning of my life
(The meaning of my life)
Don't need another perfect stranger ringing in my ear
Yelling and screaming, I don't wanna hear
(Don't wanna hear)
I don't need another perfect stranger trying to run my life
Constantly pushing, I want your advice
I don't need another perfect stranger, oh, oh, oh, oh