

Cherbourg, Never Love Again

You probably had someone better to do
You probably had a million other things on your mind
Only, you are on mine

I will never love again with all my heart
It just falls apart every time I try
I will never love again with all my heart
It just falls apart every time I try

There's a queue outside o' your door
Of all the hearts you've broken before
Who am I to think that I am anything more
Than just one of those
I'm just one of those

I will never love again with all my heart
It just falls apart every time I try
I will never love again with all my heart
It just falls apart every time I try

I'm just one of those
I'm just one of those

I will never love again with all my heart
It just falls apart every time I try
I will never love again with all my heart
It just falls apart every time I try.
