Death Song

You call us barbarians... Eh.

It is an honorable name.

We mean to cancel the world you civilized people made.

We will simply erase history from the time that machinery and weapons threatened more than they

And when you die... the last living reminder of hell will be gone.

Gone.

-Something at the beginning from Omega Man or some other post-apocalyptic movie with anti-tech

Everyday it comes my way in different shapes & forms.

Greed, hate & jealousy, the faces it adorns.

And though I walk the valley in the shadow of my deeds, consider this, it's always there; the ends to meet the needs.

I give you money, you give me death.

You think it's funny, I gasp for breath.

Tompkins Square is everywhere, it's written on the walls

they'll suffocate yer real estate and grab you by yer balls

my life is such a living hell, a squatted rotted empty shell

no mistakes to learn

Watch a cop for us today, an opiate, a new decay, your breathing stops this dying day.

The bigtime, it killed Crusty Dave.

We're all alone, we miss his heat,

and now I feel so incomplete.

The death he tasted was so sweet,

from womb to tomb, the rotting meat!
