

Chris Cornell, Safe and sound

Think of a time When morning will come And you will wake up without the feeling That half the world