

Chris Hillman, Our Love It Don't Come Easy

Little Jennie said the same ol' thing to me the night we broke up
Talk is cheap you make me weep, it's time that you grow up
You never hear it's so unclear, things I say to you
Why don't you ever finish things that you never start to do?
We go round and round again, our love it don't come easy
To find a space in our little place we bump and fall about
It's time to look at where we are that's right when you you want out
Well, the cozy things that we both need are just a step away
We get so awful close and then you always seem to say
We go round and round again, our love it don't come easy
Why do we still act the same after what we both been through?
Do you think we love the pain as a way to keep things new?
Twenty four and twelve will always total thirty six they say
When you add our pros and cons, we don't come out that way
I guess, the easy thing to do would be to say bye bye
I'd like to see if just the once, the both of us can try
We go round and round again, our love it don't come easy
We go round and round again, our love it don't come easy
We go round and round again, our love it don't come easy
