

Chris Hillman, There You Go

There you go breaking my heart again
I got to hold on again, so I can mend again
So many times I've followed you down this road
Here I am when there you go
Is this the same girl I used to know
Who I watched grow, who loved me so?
Now you find it so easy to justify
A false goodbye with no reason why
There you go breaking my heart again
I got to hold on again, so I can mend again
So many times I've followed you down this road
Here I am when there you go

I guess, this all will come back around
When you're feeling lost, I can be found
'Cause that's the way it's suppose to be
I'll always love you, yeah, you'll always love me
But there you go, I never know where or when
It might not ever end, so we'll just mend again
We're learning how to go down this road again
So here I am when there you go
Yeah, here I am when there you go