

Christ Agony, Necro'no'manticism

So bloody night soiled with desire slowly awakes like death looks in your eyes this night leaves too, she's wearing a coat she's leaving taken by the horses of day We come here to glorify death to take of irons from the face we come here to sink the fear to get rid of repugnance This night is to resemble a temple this night is the only sanctity we will apply it's oil to your bodies and the screams will flow out of one mouth into another This night is death it's a last kiss
it's a forgiven sin
We come here to glorify death
to bid the day farewell with screams and singing we come here to sink in death and to devote us to this entirely It's our sanctuary a temple of lost travellers searching for their own worlds Possesed by lusts they celebrate the brutality of silence they search for an unknown god naked truths in irons chained to the rocks and bloody sacrifices hate ragging around and angert making the hands burst treaded traces arround to the weird castles the warriors of barbarous tribes the last among the real ones they don't escape from fear in churches of killing glorifying diamonds and beautiful women they will find their own home in illusion the last so faithful till the end without death