

Circus Maximus, A Darkened Mind

We walk alone to the edge of insanity
In the end of time we fall ... tonight?

Never walk alone outside or pull the strings when you are alive in a dying world
It's a mesmerizing thing
These are the nights where the holy morning rise
Now it's time for you to open your eyes

When I look into your darkened mind I take you in, no compromise
There's something wrong inside my head

Can you forget there must be time to forgive, we will be one again

I don't know where to find myself, thought I can feel it anyway
I won't forget all the things that you promised me
My darkened mind will never set me free
