

Claire Voyant, Close To Me

Unknown seems to rush through my veins
So far you've been this close to me
You can share my words
You can feel my breath
So far you've been this close to me

I feel this ever-lucid song I'll never learn
The quiet street
Where you held me
I feel love I've never known

And when you speak do you speak to me
So far, you feel this close to real
If you share my world you can take my breath away
So far you've been this close to me

And it feels like water through my hand
You see, life is a million grains of sand
I feel this ever-lucid song I'll never know
The quiet street you hold me
I feel love I've never known

Unknown seems to rush through my veins
So far you feel this close to me
I can feel this time it's closer to the fire than I
So far you've been this close to me

And it feels like water through my hand
You seem close but times a million grains of sand
I feel this heady-lucid sigh I will never learn
These quiet streets, will you help me
I feel love I've never known
I feel this senseless peace
Yes, I will never learn
Close my eyes, sleep, dream
Where I keep this locked

I'll never know
Lose my mind
Unknown seems to rush through my veins
So far you been this close to me