

Claire Voyant, Silence

How worn we were on such a day
You can almost feel the date
And I can't deny the pain
So I wait for the right time
To wish the world away
To walk in

And I can't help wanting every word
To escape this night

We are worn and we dress on Sunday
Try to touch the smile
And I can't describe your face
So I wait for the next time
To wish the world away
And walk in

And I can't help wanting every word
To escape this night
And with your eyes
You can't help watching everywhere
Before it begins
You can break this silence
Oh, with your heart

Here we take this vow and you struggle
Invitation to the other
I will come forsake the others
I'll see you again

And you can't help wanting every word
We can escape this night
And with your arms you can't help wanting everywhere
Before it begins you can break this silence with your heart