

Clawfinger, 2 The Truth

Speak the truth don't you dare lie to me I've seen it all before you disagree the way you always attack all the things that you say the way you turn your back and then you walk away shut your mouth and open up your eyes you better take your time and try to realize that no one's free from sin and when I look at you I scream within WHAT IS WRONG WITH YOU you raise yourself up to a higher degree and look down in disgust at our misery you're no better than your enemy but it's easy to hate what you just can't be don't deny the fact that you're a mortal man you can't escape from death when it's close at hand don't sit upon a pedestal and raise your voice if you're too deaf to listen to the people's choice truth tell me the truth the truth motherfker tell me the truth tell me the truth tell me the truth the truth you sucker you play us out and you take us all for fools but I never understood who even made the rules I'll make my stand against supremacy cos hypocritical governments threaten me I know you ain't blind and I know you're aware but your ego's too big for you to even care the doors are wide open but your eyes are closed you're unable to look any further than your nose you open your mouth and all I hear is lies you keep spreading your message that I despise because the game you're playing is so easy to see it's just another repeat of our history you talk about peace it's a very strong word it's always being said but it's never been heard hi-tech weapons are here to reassure it but I've never seen a time when they've done a shit for it Truth..... kick it to me now cos I just can't figure take a small mistake and make a small one bigger equality's a word have you ever even heard it I guess not and you don't deserve it turning your backs on the problems that surface I get a feeling that you're doing it on purpose your mind is SLIME so please resign you can't control your own life don't try to rule mine Truth.....
