

Clay Kevin, Watch Me Fall

I didn't think it would die like it did. But then I didn't soon it will drown. Angel, trust me.

Loose this devil bound. And you can watch me fall. But I will never crawl. You can watch me fall again. Someday, somehow, love will endure. These sins that tangle, that strangle the cure. You can leave me, but I'll only stay. You will need me when the "friends" that you made are gone. And I will watch you fall.
But I will never crawl. I will watch you fall again.
