

Clear Vision, The Call

Hanging on, waiting for words
Crazy to sit here in silence

We've been acting like strangers
Never say the things we mean

I am afraid of feelings like this
It grows with every single kiss
You lift me up, you put me down
It's in your eyes and then it's gone

There is nothing more to give
And there is no other way to live

I hear the beating of your heart
And it hurts so bad