Cliff Richard, Discovering

Now you say you belong to me
Do you ever take the time to ask me
If I want to be more involved in your life

It's so sad
You don't realise
What I can do for you
It's so sad
You won't spend more time alone with me
When you could be discovering my love

Can't you see just how much you're hurting me
When you say one thing and then do another
I forgive you
But still you take me for granted

It's so sad
You don't realise
What I can do for you
It's so sad
You won't spend more time alone with me
When you could be discovering my love

You know there are times
When nothing else takes my place
And those times
Mean more to you than anything else

But still you need more of me
And I need more of you - give me more of you

It's so sad
You don't realise
What I can do for you
It's so sad
You won't spend more time alone with me
When you could be discovering my love
