

Clifford T. Ward, Some Uncertainty

She may smile, she may cry

She may turn away from me

Whatever she decides

There's some uncertainty.

She may say she will leave

She may hesitate and stay

Oh, I don't really believe

She will go away.

She is takin' up all my time

And there are things I need to attend

She is makin' up her mind

And I feel we're near the end.

She may say straightforwardly

"I don't love you any more"

It may be that definite

But I hope she's not so sure.

People come, people go

Barely catchin' what they see

Well she came and so she went

With some uncertainty.