

Clint Black, Back Home In Heaven

There's a burnin' silver lining, lighting up the sky
Ahead of someone's promise, the storm is passing by
I know I can't be with you, you're like a distant star
Shining in the great unknown, but I know where you are

You're the guiding light that always gets me through
But it's the longest road that leads me back to you
My body's bound to wander but my heart will always be
Back home in heaven where my angel waits for me

I can feel the earth beneath my feet
And sunlight on my face
This world can bring me to my knees
And keep me in my place
Where I'm always lookin' up to you
Just like I've always done
Asking you my questions
And the answers always come

You live on here in your carefully planted seeds
That have grown to give me everything I need
My body's bound to wander but my heart will always be
Back home in heaven where my angel waits for me

You're the guiding light that always gets me through
But it's the longest road that leads me back to you
My body's bound to wander but my heart will always be
Back home in heaven where my angel waits for me
Back home in heaven where my angel waits for me