(Clint Black) Well I got on in Bristol, by the old Virgina line With a suitcase full of dreams, And a brand new spendin' dime

(Pam Tillis) I had a full bouquet of music, wrapped in pretty words Singin' songs sent down from heaven, On the wings of a speckled bird Wings of a speckled bird

(Randy Travis) I heard a guitar and a fiddle, banjo and mandolin An old man opened up the door and told me "come on in"

(Marty Stuart) He took my ticket, then he told me, Bring what it is you do 'Cause that's how you'll be remembered When you're travelin' days are through When you're travelin' days are through

(All) They came from the hills and mountains, The valleys and the plains Some were kind and gentle, And some too wild to tame

(Emmylou Harris) A string of fearless hearts, on an endless ball of twine It's the same old train, it's just a different time Just a different time

(Merle Haggard) We sung songs in war, we sung songs in peace We traveled in abundance and we traveled on relief

(Travis Tritt) From the outer gates of heaven, to hell fire's burnin' door It don't matter where you take it, 'Cause it's been there before It's been there before

(All) They came from the hills and mountains, The valleys and the plains Some were kind and gentle, And some too wild to tame

(Merle Haggard) A string of fearless hearts, on an endless ball of twine

(All) It's the same old train, it's just a different time Just a different time

(Ricky Skaggs/Patty Loveless) Now like a precious treasure, that's immeasurable in worth We stand before a new wave, proud children of the earth

(Joe Diffie) We'll go on forever, and here's your solid proof As long as there's a world we've gotta sing Those folks the truth Sing those folks the truth

(Dwight Yoakam) They came from the neon cities, The suburbs and the towns From Bakersfield to Baltimore, It's sacred holy ground

(All) A string of fearless hearts, on an endless ball of twine It's the same old train, it's just a different time Just a different time Just a different time Just a different time
