

Close To Home, Hanging Onto Nothing

I heard from someone that you had moved along.
I'd be happy for you but I'm not that strong.
So you say you got just what you want,
What about the rest of us?

We are broken is there something that can put us back together?
We are hanging onto nothing but the past was never there.

And so you say that some people never change.
Your excuses are falling to pieces, that the part of being speechless.
I'm tired of this game.
So you say you found just what you need,
Maybe things weren't meant to be.

We are broken is there something that can put us back together?
We are hanging onto nothing but the past was never there.
You had me pinned.
I was all that you wanted, caught in your plan but you failed when you lost it.
Now the pictures and memories, what could be is all that we have.
All we have.

Its so easy to fall, to let you back in.
Even after blaming you for it all.
I couldn't make you trust me, but I'll be damned if I didn't try.
I did everything I could for you so this is goodbye
This is goodbye.

At first I missed you when you're gone.
Now I wished I never met you at all.

We are broken is there something that can put us back together?
We are hanging onto nothing but the past was never there.
You had me pinned.
I was all that you wanted, caught in your plan but you failed when you lost it.
Now the pictures and memories, what could be is all that we have.
All we have.

All we have.
