

Closterkeller, The Reign Of The Comet

A train of stars - a veil of white
I look for it in the sky
These words seem to have no meaning
But why are the angels weeping?

The rain was as cold back then
You said here we'd meet again
Though I knew it was a lie
I didn't push your arms from mine

She is both darkness and light
She is both sadness and delight
She is the lost child of the gods
My sister, my lover against all odds

I walked till the night had won
Then I slowly turned around
Just to see the comet paint
A cold shade over the lane

I offered my fear this time
I drank blood - or was it light?
Rain swept my pain into the earth
Kind of strange to be redeemed here

She is both darkness and light
She is both sadness and delight
She is the lost child of the gods
My sister, my lover against all odds

I'll be here tomorrow, I'll touch her again
The Timeless wants me to return
I can't feel the cold that was in the rain
I can be with you again, here, where
The Immortal One would give me her blood
Not even asking if that's what I want

She is both darkness and light
She is both sadness and delight
She is the lost child of the gods
My sister, my lover against all odds