

Clouds, Here Now

I could have been you and you could have been me
And perhaps we are each other, we may be
Fragments of a universal soul
Parts of a whole

I understand you and you understand me
A quick and dizzy sense of agreement
Hovers in the air we share

And I don't believe in past lives
I don't think we walk the same roads
Before now somehow
But we're here now

I know what you go through
The quiet storms that rock you
And the distant beat of the drums
That you dance to

I don't believe in past lives
I don't think we walk the same road
Before now somehow
But we're here now
But we're here now