

Colin Hay, Against the tide

The lines are broken between she and I
But the road is as straight as an arrow
We had walked in a line