

Colin Hay Band, I Just Don't Think I'll Ever Get Over You

I drink good coffee every morning comes from a place that's far away and when I'm done I feel like talking without you here there is less to say

I don't want you thinking I'm unhappy what is closer to the truth but if I lived till I was 102
I just don't think I'll ever get over you no longer moved to drink strong whiskey I shook the hand of time and I knew that if I lived till I could no longer climb my stairs

I just don't think I'll ever get over you

Face that dances and it haunts me with laughter still ringin in my ears I still find peices of your presence here Even even after all these years

I don't want you thinkin that I don't get asked to dinner cuz I'm here to say that I sometimes do and even though I may seem like I'm down
I just don't think I'll ever get over you

If I live till I was 102
I just don't think I'll ever get over you
