Colin Hay, Children On Parade

all the girls and boys are gone away never really had much to say they took all their clothes and their shoes politely asked to be excused they're the children on parade they have secrets that they share they're the children on parade and nobody knows nobody knows all the broken toys lie on the floor there's no more laughter from down the hall mirror mirror mirror on the wall whatever could have happened to them all to the children on parade and all the secrets that they share they're the children on parade and nobody knows nobody knows all across the world, just yesterday all the girls and boys just went away they took off all their clothes and their shoes i'd love to someday hear all the news about the children on parade and about all the secrets that they share they're the children on parade and nobody knows nobody knows nobody knows nobody knows
