Collide, Shimmer

Shimmer shimmer eternal like you were floating shimmering between life's tributary up on a window sill affect your internal eye and there was so much more
if the truth was unkind
would i fall through the world
some kind of danger
if the truth was unkind
would i fall through the world
some kind of danger
shimmer shimmer between us like we were flying colours seem so much brighter than they did before if i stumble you'll catch me
if i stumble you'll catch me
if the truth was unkind
would i fall through the world
some kind of day dream
if the truth was unkind
would i fall through the void depending on what you believe if i stumble stumble you'll catch me right here beside on a blue horizon on life's tributary if i crumble underneath reckless emotion
of your own illusion
if the truth was unkind
would i fall through the world
some kind of day dream
if the truth was unkind
would i fall through the void
depending on what you believe underneath shimmering illuminating inbetween underneath
i feel torn as i stumble in me i feel torn