Colony 5, Future

Tragedies and suffering I hear them scream screaming for help The prophets preach the end of the world only fools believe their words

No truth without evidence it's easy to lie who can seek the answers who can see through the sky Such a great temptation who can carry such a quest and gain that information we don't need no god

We don't need no god no more We don't need a tyrant

We want to love we want to breathe we want to be Rebuild the world with the knowledge we retrieve

We want to feel we want to live we want to see seek the wisdom from the future and believe