Color Me Badd, Where Lovers Go

(Asian Bonus Track) I have a plan, a woman and a man against the wind but living free the price for love my life for thee don't run in fear, I need you to be here I will climb the walls you hide behind I will search the world until I find I know that the ride we take a life we'll make above the fears, beyond the tears happiness remains through the years I can be the one, you know I can when you're following me home, your heart in hand helplessly controlled to another land to a place where lovers go I see the light, endless in your eyes shining through, calling me, I forget the hurtful memories dodging the stars, to get where they are they fought until they made it through I will fight the same to arrive with you repeat a companion and a friend, I will love you til the end til the end of time, through the years repeat