

Coltrane Motion, Dozier-Holland-Dozier write me off a a latecomer, yeh missed the first, second, third revivals still i can feel it i can't say anything new i cant say anything

we can still strum the same chords we can still sing the same notes we can still write the same songs we can still make the same noise

we can still strum the same chords
we can still sing the same notes
we can still write the same songs
we can still make the same noise

we love the sixties like it was the eighties we love the day-glo echo chambers
still i can feel it in the grooves of these ones and zeros

we can still write the same songs
we can still sing the same notes
we can still strum the same chords
we can still make the same noise

we can still sing the same notes
we can still write the same songs
we can still strum the same chords
we can still make the same noise

this has all been synthesized, yeh sampled and digitized, yeh
still i can feel it
we gotta move to get the idea

we can still strum the same chords
we can still write the same songs
we can still sing the same notes
we can still make the same noise

we can still write the same songs
we can still strum the same chords
we can still sing the same notes
we can still make the same noise