Comeback Kid, In/Tuition

I wonder why Lately I've been thinking of a time Product of our surroundings and we held up the sign I loved, I learned, we sang all the words Wednesday mornings we would always sit in the Biggest room

One of those days still in my mind And it's always stayed with me Watching from a distance and someone said She screamed relentlessly from visions she had

Just as real to me as it was to you A decade down the line who knew Impressionable minds were told I wish I could go back just to know 'cause it was undeniable All my peers they seemed so credible

One of those days still in my mind And it's always stayed with me Sunset, sky turning red Fascinated by what he said This boy's in agony from visions he had

Speculate intentions and bring the attention to the source Years ago I said a prayer and asked that I would Never have to see I'm hardly ever reminded Surely its because I decide I'm inviting as often, but every so often
