

Common Children, So Mysterious

Faded flowers in her room
As black as night without a moon
But she glows like a city in the night
Yeah she lives for the beauty in this life

She's so mysterious
She's a riddle unraveling
And she keeps me curious
When she talks about her dreams
She can be so serious
Between love and poverty
Yeah she's all of this and she's everything to me

She lets the rain drip on her skin
Underneath the thunder in the wind
Cause she says love is louder than the sky
And she knows faith is stronger than the night

She's so mysterious
She's a riddle unraveling
And she keeps me curious
When she talks about her dreams
She can be so serious
Between love and poverty
Yeah she's all of this and she's everything to me
She's all of this and she's everything to me
