

Common Rider, Long After Lights Out did you say all the things you meant to say silence has a way of arriving unannounced if you could have said but one more little line that you thought was timely but you couldn't find the time time may find you, speak your mind and your heart that's the most important part at the end of the daylight hours when you slip into the nighttime powers don't you leave things to long after long after lights out did you do all the things you wanted to sleep comes much too quickly to the ones who do not move if you could have done just one more little thing that you thought was important but you waited in the wings -- wings are made for taking flight (rock steady in the kingdom of night) powers of the night in a blue nocturne gather in mists and await your return