

Conception, Sanctuary

blind eyes search the sky but try not to reveal uncertainty behind images dancing on a wall each tear a vision the more you cry you'll learn it's so easy to hide in the dark the song you know so well encourages to flee the answer to your tears lingers in colours you can't see each word a whisper the more they say you'll find
you won't find the treasure below the rainbows end black and white are strangers to the pictures of the rain you meet another day with hasty little lies when someone laughs you turn away glad people make you feel unsafe there's a place where all is sound where you know you won't be found where the sun and the moon never shine and it's easy to hide in the dark
